'Prom' EXCLUSIVE First Look: Swoon Over The Cutest Ask Ever!

Posted 4/8/11 12:00 pm ET by Amy Wilkinson in Crush Exclusive!, Movies, Videos

Across this fine nation of ours, millions of teens are in training for the biggest day of their high school careers. No, I'm not talking about taking the SATs. Or graduation. No, this is the OLYMPICS of high school, people: PROM.

Maybe you're one of the many anxiously perfecting your bump-and-grind, or firming up your punch-ladling arm, or pinning and repinning a fake boutonniere onto your dad's old powder blue tuxedo. Whether you're right in the thick of it, or a few years out of high school (ahem, like me), your prom mania (or nostalgia) will no doubt find refuge in the upcoming Disney movie "Prom" (out April 29).

In anticipation of the teen flick, we've got an EXCLUSIVE clip just for you, dear Hollywood Crush readers.

The snippet above stars Yin Chang (who you may know as Nelly Yuki from "Gossip Girl") as Mei and Jared Kusnitz as Justin, and features probably the most adorable prom ask ever. Mei sits in a dimly lit auditorium as the curtain draws back revealing an illuminated "P." For each letter in the word PROM, Justin explains the many reasons he totally digs Mei (ex. "P is for the paralyzing crush I had on the new girl in math class in the eighth grade. Her name was Mei. She was awesome.") As you can probably guess, Mei can't deny Justin's creative proposal and eagerly agrees to be his date to the big dance.
